OFFICE OF ARCHAEOLOGICAL STUDIES

ARCHAEOLOGY NOTES CATALOG | AN 1–505

@ August 2019

This catalogue lists reports in the Archaeology Notes (AN) series, published by the Office of Archaeological Studies, Department of Cultural Affairs, Museum of New Mexico. It is comprehensive to date, fully searchable, and, in many cases, the reports themselves are directly downloadable from our website database (db); users will find additional publications-related resources there as well. Downloadable reports are in a searchable PDF format and complete, with certain significant exceptions—please see the special NOTE below regarding public distribution copies. We hope this catalogue and report accessibility will make it easier for archaeologists and others to find material relevant to their interests and research.

If you already know the AN number you wish to download, go directly to:

www.nmarchaeology.org/publications/archaeology-notes.html.

The Archaeology Notes series began publication in 1990, when what had been known as the Research Section of the Museum of New Mexico became the Office of Archaeological Studies. A separate catalogue detailing the previous series, Laboratory of Anthropology Notes (work published from 1955 to 1991) is available at nmarchaeology.org/publications.html. Information on how print or electronic versions of the Lab reports may be accessed is provided at that same link.

NOTE: In accordance with state and federal law, all information regarding the location of archaeological sites (usually contained within a final appendix) is removed from copies for public distribution. Such information is available to authorized individuals through the Archaeological Records Management Section (ARMS)/Historic Preservation Division, in Santa Fe (505 476-1275; nmcris.support@state.nm.us).

AN reports are listed here in numerical order. Archaeological reports listed as “RESTRICTED” do not circulate (for authorized users, please see the ARMS contact information in the “NOTE” above); further, OAS internal reports are not released to the public. Reports listed as “in prep.” are in an active editorial/review/or production stage and are not yet available. Last, — STATUS TBD — indicates that research may still be ongoing and information on report availability is pending. The database and catalogue will be updated as any outstanding reports become available.

For updated information on the availability of specific reports, or if you encounter any technical issues or have any other questions, send email inquiries to the Editor @ Lynne Arany (lynne.arany@state.nm.us | 505 476-4420). Messages may also be left at: 505 476-4413.

Subject: [6-vol. series: Totah—Time and the Rivers Flowing: Excavations in the La Plata Valley] NM 170 (La Plata Highway), runs north–south through the La Plata River Valley, from its junction with US 64 just west of Farmington, NM, to the Colo. state line some 20 mi (32 km) to the north. Sites within the project area covered a large range of complexity, volume, and date of deposition. All remains encountered were Anasazi or prehistoric Pueblo and dated from the mid-AD 500s to the early 1300s; Pueblo II and III periods dominate, but Basketmaker III has a considerable presence as well. Collections ran from a few artifacts to many thousands. Report content includes architectural and stratigraphic details and analyses of recovered artifacts and biological remains.

Project name: Jicarilla
No. of pages:
Subject: LA 71263 was a burned Navajo hogan occupied during the Gallina period (AD 1050–1300) and between AD 1300 and 1700. LA 76270, a sherd and lithic artifact, may have been a campsite during the Dinetah or subsequent Gobernador phase (ca.1600–1775). A nearby Gallina-phase tower structure, a component of LA 143324, contained corncobs left by Dinetah-phase people, as indicated by a radiocarbon date of about AD 1640. A pictograph of the Twin War Gods is on the cliff wall near the tower unit.

Subject: The investigations were associated with two separate highway projects along US 84/285: The Pojoaque South project, and the Santa Fe to Pojoaque Corridor project. Dates assigned to the nineteen sites investigated by these projects range from the Late Archaic to the Railroad period. The Late Archaic period dominated at LA 111333 and LA 138924. The late Developmental period was represented by components at 13 sites: LA 388, LA 390, LA 391, LA 740, LA 835, LA 3119, LA 6568, LA 6579, LA 84927, LA 89021, LA 111326, LA 138960, and LA 145398. Coalition-period pottery was identified at several sites, but the only component from this period that was specifically investigated was at LA 138960. Classic-period components were found at four sites: LA 101410, LA 111333, LA 138960, and LA 145398. Historic Native American components occurred at two sites—LA 750 and LA 6568—although the former may have been mixed with older materials. Historic Euroamerican components were identified at five sites: LA 160, LA 835, LA 4968, LA 6579, and LA 138960. Subject: Testing and data-recovery excavations at 31 archaeological sites in the Santa Fe Railyard Park. The Santa Fe Railyard project area was divided into north and south excavation areas. The sites are presented in groups according to cultural temporal assignment and are generally reported from north to south. Major components include: a Spanish Colonial- to Mexican-era midden deposit, nineteenth-century field remnants excavated at LA 146402 (Chapter 3); Acequias (Chapter 2); sites primarily associated with the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway (Chapter 3); sites primarily associated with the New Mexico Central Railway (Chapter 4); Neighborhood Refuse sites (Chapter 5); and Twentieth-Century Industrial sites (Chapter 6). Subject: Across the 10 sites investigated, human activity is represented from 800 BC to the mid-twentieth century, or around 2,000 years of use and reuse. Chipped stone tool-making activities dominate in sites from 800 BC–AD 1500, local Puebloan populations exploited the land for agrarian purposes from AD 1270–1500, and there is a specific example of a historic-period homestead--a potential remnant of the Tierra Azul community--from the Territorial period. Most lithic sites consisted of single temporal occupations, however LA 48676 had repeated visits over a long time period.

Subject: A 122 ft. utility trench and bore hole in a parcel of private property owned by Drury Hotels, Inc., within the Historic Downtown Archaeological District of Santa Fe, NM, required monitoring and excavation for cultural deposits, per City of Santa Fe ordinance. Apart from scattered turn-of-the-century Euroamerican and native artifacts lacking contextual integrity, no intact cultural resources were encountered. The scattered artifacts were present for about 100 ft of the trench, especially where it paralleled Sena Plaza to the south. These consisted of bone (faunal), ceramics (both native and historic), and glass and metal dating from the seventeenth century to the turn-of-the-twentieth-century, with a light scatter of 13th- and 14th-century prehistoric native materials and two historic-period strike-a-lights. Artifacts from the bore hole consisted of 1950s construction debris, native ceramics dating to the 17th and 18th centuries, and Euroamerican ceramics, metal, glass, and bricks from the late 19th and early 20th centuries. A feature was encountered in the bore hole at 60 cm below the present ground surface; it consisted of a parallel row of bricks, representing a landscaping detail either associated with the 1880s “sanatorium” or the turn-of-the-20th-century convent/dormitory component of Marian Hall.

That field project, completed in November 2011, involved the survey of 23.6 miles of right-of-way for the proposed Southern Road, in the Jornada del Muerto in south-central New Mexico. This report concerns a proposed alternate route for one segment of the Southern Road. One new archaeological site (LA 172905) and 15 isolated manifestations were encountered and documented. LA 172905 consists of a fire-cracked rock concentration (Feature 1), a sparse lithic scatter, and a mano. Also, the boundaries for LA 110393--a large chipped stone artifact scatter with 11 thermal rock features--were expanded.

Subject: Analysis of the data and comparisons with patterns seen in the southern San Juan region and in the Acoma District proper determined that the sites investigated were undoubtedly members of a larger community, and similar to others spread across the San Juan Basin and the Red Mesa and San Mateo valleys. The project sites were integrated into the Chacoan regional system and did not completely fit into the chronology developed for the Acoma District. Rather than representing the movement of new people into the area, this was considered evidence that communities along the northern edge of the Acoma District gravitated toward participation in the Chacoan regional system during the late Pueblo II period--while communities further south in the district did not. It was during the Pueblo II period that ceramic assemblages and patterns of trade and import seen in communities in the Red Mesa Valley deviated from those in the rest of the Acoma District. The "Chacoan" communities for the most part disappeared by the early to mid-AD 1100s, and their occupants either moved into other related communities or formed new ones structured more like those in the Acoma District proper.

Subject: [RESTRICTED] [UNCORRECTED PROOF] In the course of construction activities at Vermejo Park Ranch—previously surveyed by OAS for the Abandoned Mines Land Program (AML; AN 397, AN 432)—it became apparent that the original surface inventory overlooked some archaeological features. The resurvey activity encompassed portions of both the Blossburg (LA 57193) and Gardiner (LA 158078) town sites and resulted in the documentation of 300 archaeological manifestations, including 201 previously undocumented features, 80 previously recorded features, and 19 artifact concentrations. Many, if not all, of the industrial features appear to be associated with the Blossburg No. 1 and Old Dutchman coal mines, which operated between the early 1880s and early 1900s. Spatially associated residential/commercial complexes are inferred to be contemporaneous based on the presence of temporally diagnostic artifacts.

Subject: LA 144329 is within the Santa Fe Historic District (LA 4450), however no prior archaeological investigations had been performed within the current project area. Situated on this property, at 100 Catron Street, is the former Judge Steve Herrera Judicial Complex, which housed the Santa Fe County Courthouse, and was originally constructed in 1937 to serve as the Harvey Junior High School. Test excavation units revealed a midden or field deposit associated with the 18th-century (Spanish Colonial period) occupation of the project area by the Esquivel family and late 19th-century (American Territorial period) structural remnants that are linked to the Presbyterian Mission School, which was founded in 1867. No prehistoric cultural deposits or human remains were encountered within the project area.

Subject: Late Archaic/Early Agricultural—period base camp, where occupants exploited both wild and domestic plant species growing along the floodplain of the Mimbres River. Notably, cotton pollen was identified beneath a ground stone artifact associated with an ephemeral structure; the most accurate dates recovered for the structure were between 897 and 774 cal BC (2 sigma). This indirect date for cotton is consistent with early cotton dates in southeast Arizona and may currently be the oldest evidence of domesticated cotton in New Mexico. Radiocarbon dates for the corn remains are 758–429 cal BC (2 sigma).

Title: The Santa Fe County District Attorney Complex Renovation: Research Design and Data Recovery Plan at LA 156207, Santa Fe County, New Mexico

Date of project: 2014-2016

Date of report: 2016

Type of project: Data recovery plan

County: Santa Fe

LA number(s): 156207

Project number: 41.1009

Project name: District Attorney Complex

No. of pages: 92

Subject: A research design and data recovery plan for additional investigations at LA 156207 in the vicinity of the previously uninvestigated Santa Fe County District Attorney Complex. Reconnaissance of the then-proposed First Judicial District Courthouse location (AN 390) identified cultural resources in a series of backhoe trenches, resulting in the definition of site LA 156207.

During courthouse construction, liquid hydrocarbon contamination of the construction site required remediation, and after data recovery had been completed, archaeological monitoring was carried out for remediation pipeline trenches and well locations outside of the Santa Fe County parcel (AN 428). The monitoring identified an additional archaeological site (LA 167408) to the southeast of the courthouse and a series of historic and pre-contact features and deposits on private land to the north. The private land features and deposits were continuous with those within the courthouse parcel, and the LA 156207 site boundary was extended to the north as a result of the monitoring effort. With the completion of the First Judicial District Courthouse complex, Santa Fe County has initiated plans for renovation of the District Attorney Complex building and immediately adjacent grounds. Most of the renovation involves the building interiors, but the architectural plan has identified three areas of subsurface disturbance. The first area is adjacent to an apparent historic cobble foundation (AN 428:52) and also approximately 10 m to the south of pre-contact deposits and a cluster of features including a burial, a small pit structure, and a possible surface structure (AN 428:37-43). It is also likely that intact cultural resources, pre-contact and historic, are present in the vicinity of the proposed security fence.

Date of report: 2014

Type of project: Data recovery plan

County: Mora

LA number(s): 139965

Project number: 41.1011

Project name: Coyote Canyon Rockshelter

No. of pages: 56

Subject: LA 139965 consists of two small rock shelters that could have cultural material representing Prehistoric-, Protohistoric-, and Historic-period occupations. The site was first recorded by Marshall and Marshall in 2003 as a multicomponent site that occupies an area 60 m long at the base of a cliff. It includes two small rockshelters they named Coyote Canyon Rockshelter and talus areas with cultural material. Potential occupations include Jicarilla Apache, Puebloan, and Anglo or Hispanic groups (2004:39). The initial survey for this project located one other site (a historic lumber camp and ranch headquarters) and nine isolated occurrences (IOs) within a three-mile (4.8 km) radius of the site. Only one other prehistoric site was recorded during the survey, LA 139968, a cobble pile with two metates dating to the prehistoric or Protohistoric period, is just outside the town of Mora (Marshall and Marshall 2004:5, 7). Given the lack of information on this area, excavations at LA 139965 should provide important information on the early history and prehistory of Coyote Canyon.

Project name: Santa Fe County Administrative Campus

No. of pages: 148

Subject: Test excavations (OAS, AN 455) within LA 144329, at the former Judge Steve Herrera Judicial Complex, revealed a midden or field deposit associated with the 18th-century occupation of the project area by the Esquivel family and late 19th-century structural remnants that are linked to the Presbyterian Mission School (1867). No intact prehistoric cultural deposits or human remains were encountered within the project area, although scattered prehistoric artifacts were recovered in the historic fill deposits, presumably from the extensive multiple prehistoric components that have been documented at LA 1051, immediately to the east of the project area. Based on the testing results, OAS will focus data recovery efforts on portions of the project area where intact 18th- and 19th-century cultural deposits have been documented. Areas within the Judicial Complex building that were built on grade (i.e., that lack basements or crawl spaces) will be tested prior to building demolition. Noting that a single prehistoric burial was encountered during utility monitoring at the southwest limits of LA 144329 (outside of this Santa Fe County parcel), and based on the proximity of the site to LA 1051, with its extensive Coalition- and Classic-period components, OAS requested a site-specific burial excavation permit for this project.

Initial data recovery in 2011 investigated three Spanish Colonial-period features—a road segment, a midden, and a lime-slaking pit. Also examined were the foundations of a coal room and deposits associated with the former Sisters of Charity orphanage and hospital. Later data recovery and monitoring in 2014 documented the foundations of the first sanatorium, a small boiler building, a girls' dormitory, a teachers' dormitory, an outdoor bathroom, part of Seton Hall, a vegetable cellar, and a large adobe building, all of which were also associated with the Sisters of Charity orphanage and hospital.

Date of report: 2017 [NOTE: AN 477 was reissued summer 2017 in the NMDOT Cultural Resource Technical Series, 2017-1, with this replacement report cover; content is per the original OAS 2017 edition]

Type of project: Excavation

County: Mora

LA number(s): LA 139965

Project number: 41.1011

Project name: Coyote Canyon Rockshelter

No. of pages: 524 (pp. i–xviii, 1–506)

Subject: Located along NM 434 in Mora County, on the eastern edge of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains, the general vicinity of Coyote Canyon Rockshelter is complex both environmentally and culturally, as was the site itself. Actually comprising multiple shelters, the steeply set site is about 50 m (164 ft) west of Coyote Creek, at the base of a volcanic cliff at an elevation of 2,347 m (7,700 ft). Past roadwork as well as sedimentary deposition had disturbed the site area, and so a selective sampling strategy was chosen to maximize the data that might be extracted prior to NMDOT's additional planned improvements to the roadway. The earliest evidence of site use is the presence of four En Medio points, which date to the Late Archaic period, ca. 800 BC–AD 400. Radiocarbon results and ceramic and projectile point data indicate site use from at least AD 500 until AD 1400, and again in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Both ceramics and chipped stone artifacts indicate the strongest links with the Taos area, to the north, however rare items, such as a single Cibola White Ware sherd and Narbona Pass and Zuni spotted cherts, also point to ties to the west. A few instances of rock art were not datable, but are preserved for future investigators as they are just outside the mitigation zone. Ultimately, evidence suggests that LA 139965 was primarily used as a seasonal base camp for Ancestral Pueblo peoples hunting deer and smaller animals. Use by Jicarilla Apaches and other more transient groups is more difficult to discern, but evidence for later occupation by Hispanic shepherders and possibly by Anglo travelers is present as well.

Four features were documented surrounding the mine shaft. These included a check dam, a prospect pit, a trash scatter, and a hearth. Artifacts at LA 183434 reflected evidence of mining activity and the presence of nomadic indigenous groups, likely the Western Apaches.

Title: Monitoring of the Santa Fe Fiber CIP Project from the Don Gaspar Bridge South to the John F. Simms Building for the City of Santa Fe, Santa Fe County, New Mexico
Date of project: 2015

Date of report: in prep.

Type of project: Monitoring

County: Santa Fe

LA number(s): 146402, 185822, 185824, 185825

Project number: 41.1029

Project name: Cyber Mesa

No. of pages: [pending]

Subject: Monitoring scope included 53 vaults, 15 utility trenches, and 63 potholes at four sites (LA 146402, LA 185822, LA 185824, LA 185825). Excavations resulted in the documentation of six historic features. Of these, Feature 2 (LA 185822) may represent the mortared stone block foundation of the northwest wall of the 1903–1904 stone arch bridge at the Don Gaspar crossing. This bridge stood until 1934, when it was replaced with the existing reinforced concrete bridge. Feature 4 (LA 185825) represents a north–south lateral, or veta, of the Manhattan Street Ditch that supplied water to an individual household or lot on Manhattan Avenue in the early to mid-twentieth century. Feature 6 (LA 185824) was a partially intact sheet midden on Manhattan Ave. containing Euroamerican artifacts and Native historic ceramics dating to the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

Title: Six Topographic Profiles of Traces of the Camino Real de Tierra Adentro (LA 141824 and SR 1992) in Santa Fe County, New Mexico

Date of project: 2015

Date of report: 2016

Type of project: [RESTRICTED] Survey/Inventory

County: Santa Fe

LA number(s): 141824

Project number: 41.921

Project name: Camino Real/Tierra Adentro

No. of pages: 64

Subject: [RESTRICTED] OAS documented micro-topographic expressions of the Camino Real de Tierra Adentro for future comparison with lidar-based studies of the old road. Documentation was carried out as part of the BLM contribution to the inventory and assessment of Camino Real-associated cultural resources in Santa Fe County. The presence of a limited number of sites or site components both in the project area and near a Camino Real segment affiliated with the Hispanic presence in the Colonial, post-Revolt, and Territorial periods in Santa Fe County were confirmed. These sites appear to be at considerable risk for destruction.

Title: Monitoring at the Joseph M. Montoya Federal Building in the Federal Oval for the GSA Transformer Replacement Project, Santa Fe, New Mexico

Date of project: 2016

Date of report: 2017

Type of project: Monitoring

County: Santa Fe

LA number(s): 114261

Project number: 41.1061

Project name: Federal Oval Transformer GSA

No. of pages: 92

Subject: Monitoring of the excavation of three trenches on the north side of the main post office in downtown Santa Fe. The project fell within the boundary of LA 114261, the site that encompasses the Federal Oval. No features associated with this site were encountered during monitoring, but a redeposited cultural stratum derived from the 19th-century use of the area as a city dump was recorded in all three trenches and in a small utility-locate hole. The character of this stratum at the far north end of the project area suggests that intact refuse deposits related to the city dump may exist north of the excavated trenches.

Date of project: 2017

Date of report: 2017

Type of project: Test Excavation/Monitoring

County: Santa Fe

LA number(s): 187629, 187630, 187631, 187632

Project number: 41.1067

Project name: NMSA Sanbusco

No. of pages: 102

Subject: Archeological monitoring of 18 mechanically excavated trench segments and hand excavation of two test pits pursuant to the first phase of converting the Sanbusco Center into the New Mexico School for the Arts (NMSA). Four archaeological sites were defined: three--LA 187629, LA 187630, and LA 187631--were coal and clinker locations and mostly railroad related; LA 187632, a large historic refuse pit (1880–1920), is recommended as significant based on its potential to contribute to our understanding of domestic and commercial economies during the early railroad period in Santa Fe.

Project number: 41.1070

Project name: Gomez Road Monitoring

No. of pages: 144

Subject: Monitoring of installation of new water mains on Sena Street, Anita Place, and Rael Road, and installation of new residential water meters on Gomez Road, Sena Street, and Rael Road for the City of Santa Fe Water Division. No sites or features, nor evidence of agricultural use, were encountered during the project. One unexpected find was the discovery of a 4-inch steel water line along Gomez Road, which likely predates the 1944 water main retired during this project and may represent the earliest municipal water supply for the area. *No registered cultural properties are located within the 100 m vicinity or the 500 m buffer zone of the project area. One archaeological site (LA 132265) sits within the 100 m project vicinity buffer around the proposed project area, but the location of this site appears to have been entered in error.

No. of pages: 102

Subject: Monitoring pursuant to upgrade and replacement of electrical service equipment in the vicinity of 107 Cienega Street and 210 E. Marcy Street, in downtown Santa Fe. There are no previously known archaeological sites within the project area, and no archaeological sites or features were encountered during mechanical excavations. However, a broad, thick swath of redeposited natural sediments mixed with late 19th to mid-20th century artifacts was encountered in excavations proximate to 107 Cienega Street. This layer appears to represent infill prior to home construction on Cienega Street. Reworked sediments were encountered in all other excavations as well, including the area adjacent to the existing transformers south of Radio Plaza, where an incinerator associated with the KTRC radio station was located and may have stood from 1946 to 1971. Note: a separate monitoring project near the transformer removal site revealed modern features and disturbed deposits with approximately 40 artifacts dating to the late Territorial or early Statehood periods.

Title: Early Coalition Period Occupation in the Eastern Galisteo Basin, Santa Fe County, New Mexico: The Pithouse Village at LA 3333 in the Wildhorse Community

Date of project: 1956, 1990–1991

Date of report: in prep.

Type of project: Excavation

County: Santa Fe

LA number(s): LA 8, LA 3333

Project number: 41.457

Project name: LA 3333

No. of pages: [PENDING]

Subject: [RESTRICTED] In 1956, the Laboratory of Anthropology, Museum of New Mexico (MNM)—led by Dr. Bertha P. Dutton, and later assisted by Stewart L. Peckham—was retained by the NMDOT to excavate this site (LA 3333) along US 285 between Clines Corners and Santa Fe. That segment of the road then passed across the Wildhorse Community; an unknown but relatively shallow portion of the upper deposits of the site had previously been removed. In 1990, additional improvements to US 285 required further archaeological work at LA 3333; Dr. John A. Ware (MNM) conducted the needed excavations within the full right-of-way, especially between the road prism and the right-of-way fences. Following this field phase, which included a brief follow-up in 1991 to recover human interments discovered during subsequent highway construction, specialized analyses of recovered materials were conducted. Of particular interest, the only structures found at LA 3333 were pithouses, not pueblo rooms; this fact, along with observations on faunal materials and human remains, suggests the site was settled by hunter-gatherers. However, settlement took place there in the early AD 1200s (Coalition period), an era that has proven optimal for farming as well as for attaining wild foods. Due to unexpected implications arising from LA 3333 faunal and human remains analysis, NMDOT agreed to MNM's proposal to analyze complementary remains from nearby Pueblo Alamo (LA 8), an early Coalition-period village excavated as a separate project in the early 1970s (see Lab of Anthropology Notes 86). Built and occupied shortly after the abandonment of the pithouses at LA 3333, LA 8 data would offer an opportunity to compare what could be directly sequent occupations; Nancy Akins' assessment of the faunal and human assemblages from these two sites is included in this final LA 3333 report.

Title: Archaeological Reconnaissance of the Eugenie Shonnard House

Date of report: in prep.

Type of project: Reconnaissance

County: Santa Fe

LA number(s): 189884

Project number: 41.1073

Project name: Shonnard DCA

No. of pages: [PENDING]

Subject: Archaeological reconnaissance at the Eugenie Shonnard House in advance of the proposed construction of a new building, access, and parking area. While listed on the NM State Register of Cultural Properties and the National Register of Historic Places, no previously defined archaeological sites fell within the project area. However, as a result of these investigations, the Shonnard House lot will be defined as an archaeological site: LA 189884. Based on initial historic artifacts recovered, features encountered had a mid-range date of the 1920s; a fuller range is anticipated due to the property's occupancy from the late 19th through mid-20th centuries. A few Native American ceramics were also collected--these dated to the 1800s. A well dates prior to the Shonnard residency and was probably built in 1890. The remaining features dated to 1927. In the review draft of this report, OAS recommended no further archaeological investigations. The City of Santa Fe Archaeological Review Committee accepted this report but requested additional archaeological treatment. AN 498--a treatment plan and final report--is pending.
