

What the Office of Archaeological Studies can do for Teachers:

Provide training and support for you to teach Project Archaeology: Investigating Shelter in your upper elementary or middle school classroom.	www.projectarchaeology.org Contact mollie.toll@state.nm.us to schedule a training and receive a Teacher Guide. Later, get the loan of teaching materials (and potentially an archaeologist to co-teach critical lessons) specifically geared to NM's archaeological past.
Link you to Project Archaeology extensions, content, and worksheets specially-fit to NM	www.nmarchaeology.org/education/teacherresources
Attend Archaeology Day (each year in October) at the Center for New Mexico Archaeology in Santa Fe.	www.nmarchaeology.org/events Tour working archaeological labs and collections, talk to archaeologists, participate in a variety of demonstrations.
Prehistoric technology demonstrations or activities in your classroom	Yucca cordage, reed matting, basketry, rabbit fur blankets, ceramics, atlatl throwing (contact chuck.hannaford@state.nm.us ) Bow and arrow manufacture (see www.nmarchaeology.org/education/educationresources )
Link you to Southwest and general archaeology reference materials for you and your students	Books, curriculum, videos, web sites www.nmarchaeology.org/education/teacherresources
Provide an archaeologist to accompany your class to an archaeological site in your area	Time and funds to cover these activities are very limited, but please ask! (contact chuck.hannaford@state.nm.us )
Host a visit to an archaeological research facility (CNMA) in Santa Fe
